SUBMARINE BLOCKADE OF ATLANTIC COAST

Germany's Next Move Forecasted in Diplomatic Circles at Washington—Great Steamship Lanes to be Scene of Activities of Submersibles—May Stimulate Recruiting.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 13.—That Germany will declare a "submarine blockade" of the Atlantic coast of the United States was said in diplomatic circles today to be almost a certainty. Just when the announcement will be made is purely a matter of speculation. High naval officers, however, said that it was unlikely that this action would be taken until German submarines had reached Atlantic waters off the coast of the United States.

They pointed out that if the usual plans and system were followed by Germany the bigger sea-going submarines of the German navy could be off the coast of the United States before the end of this week if they started from Kiel, as has been understood, with the declaration of war by the United States.

Reports that this action already had been taken were under discussion in diplomatic circles today. The Swiss minister, Dr. Paul Ritter, who is looking after German interests in the United States, positively refused to receive newspaper men today. He indicated through an attaché of the legation that he did not care to be responsible for any statements at the present time which dealt with the situation in Germany.

Naval officials said that if Germany has or does declare a submarine blockade of the great steamship lanes of the United States, the effect will be to greatly stimulate recruiting here. There has been a lack of interest in naval recruiting, officials say, due entirely to the fact that there has been no action. With submarines actually operating in American waters officials feel certain that the authorized enlisted personnel of the navy would be reached almost overnight.

GIVE AUTHORITY TO OPERATE ALL COMMON CARRIERS

Congress Asked to Give President Power to Seize and Operate Railroads, Telegraph and Telephone Systems of Country—Control Last Exercised by Lincoln.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 13.—The president would be given complete authority to seize and operate all of the railroads, telegraphs and telephone lines of the country for the period of the war under the terms of a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Adamson, chairman of the committee of interstate and foreign commerce.

This measure, one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation inspired by the war, would also give the president power to draft into the military service of the country all of the employees of the railroad, telegraph and telephone lines so taken. Not since Lincoln has given like control of common carriers during the Civil War has a president been vested with such far-reaching authority as that which the bill introduced today would confer upon Mr. Wilson.

The bill already has been approved by the president. The president recently sent for Representative Adamson, who is author of the railroad law which bears his name, and during a conference lasting two hours laid before him his ideas of a railroad conscription measure. Judge Adamson then began the drafting of the bill introduced today after the president placed the seal of his approval on it.

The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce will begin consideration of the bill as soon as Republican vacancies on the committee have been filled. Not only does it put all common carriers under the control of the executive, but it is an anti-strike measure as well. The bill provides that anyone who in war time willfully restricts, retards or in any way aids in restricting or retarding the mails of the United States or the free movement of interstate commerce or the orderly movement of any train or part thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This provision relates not only to those who may be concerned in strikes but all enemies of the government who interfere with movement of trains.

Power to Draft Workers.

Under the authority which the bill confers the president is given unrestricted power to take over the physical property of all railroad, telegraph and telephone lines throughout the country, to superintend their operation and more important still "to draft into the military service of the United States and to place under military control any and all of the officers, agents and employees of the railroad, telephone or telegraph companies whose lines are so taken into possession."

Severe penalties are provided for persons in control who refuse to deliver into the possession of the government any property demanded by the president. Likewise fine and imprisonment are provided for those who resist draft.

The great authority which the bill would confer on the president may be exercised "in case of actual or threatened war, insurrection or invasion," or whenever the transportation of the troops and supplies of the United States or the public safety may require the use of such authority.

The bill also provides for the increase of the interstate commerce commission from seven to eleven members and further provides that the commission may be divided into as many divisions as necessary for the consideration of questions coming before the commission as a whole.

TRUST CO. CHARTER HEARING ADJOURNED

Superintendent Richards Approves Objection That New Banks Should Not Be Started Until Problems of War Finance are Definitely Settled.

Albany, April 13.—(Special to The Freeman.)—The application of the Kingston Trust Company for a charter was adjourned before State Superintendent of Banks Richards here this morning on the objection of the representatives of the existing banks in Kingston that no new institution should be started until some of the problems in connection with financing the war became definitely settled.

This objection was driven home by ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, counsel for the State of New York National Bank, who urged adjournment after formal application for postponement had been made by Virgil E. Van Wageningen, attorney for the Kingston National Bank.

Mr. Brinnier said the condition confronting the banks was different now from what it had been when the superintendent last year had indicated his opinion on the application then made.

Attorney Arthur C. Connelly, for the proposed trust company, urged that considerable time had been spent in gathering together a list of 141 stockholders whose subscriptions were dependent upon the charter being granted.

Attorney Van Wageningen said that the 141 men could be harmed no more than the 20,000 savings bank depositors and the 30,000 savings and national bank depositors whose interests he and his associates were trying to protect.

Judge Betts, for the Kingston Savings Bank and the National Trust Company Bank, called attention to the fact that the rate of interest on the proposed seven billion dollar government loan was undetermined and would affect the rate of interest paid by the existing banks.

Over Until May 1st.

Superintendent Richards said he would put it over until after the first of May, with the understanding that the rights of the petitioners are preserved. He would like to know, he said, the exact financial status of the government before acting.

Those present in behalf of the trust company were: Attorney Arthur C. Connelly, Attorney Gilbert F. Kennedy, Albert H. Cook, William J. Turk, John Millard, Joseph Kriger, M. Clyde Crosby, A. H. Crosby, E. H. Powell, William B. Byrne.

The banks were represented by Judge Clearwater, Edward Coykendall, Judge Betts, F. J. R. Clarke, Delancey N. Matthews, ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, Dr. E. H. Loughran, John B. Alliger, Philip Elling, Virgil E. Van Wageningen, Joseph M. Schaeffer, Martin Cantline, Charles Tappan, Clarence P. Hendricks, A. E. Rose, Garret N. Oliver.

The force of this publicity will be directed toward inducing people to yield up their savings to buy war bonds, to put forward their best efforts to increase production and to exercise all their resourcefulness to practice economies which will conserve the nation's wealth.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP RAILWAY BRIDGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Portland, Me., April 13.—What is regarded by the authorities as an attempt to blow up the bridge on the Grand Trunk railroad between Portland and East Deering proved unsuccessful early today. William Hay, a guard stationed at the bridge, heard the chugging of a motor boat. He walked out onto the bridge. Failing to detect any boat he had straightened up when he was struck over the head from behind and knocked down.

His assailant fired two shots at him as he lay on the bridge. One shot tore away a part of the flesh on his left arm.

Hay fired back at the man and also at the shadow of the motor boat as it disappeared in the fog. The boat had evidently been waiting at the pier of the draw for the men who attempted to kill Hay. The bridge is the most important one in this section as it is the best means of connecting with Canadian points and from there to Maine points.

A special train of guards was sent out from Portland and the bridge was thoroughly inspected. No trace of any damage could be found. Neither did those searching find anything that looked like a bomb.

Things Taboo on Thirteenth.

ANTI-SUBMARINE POLICY DECIDED FOR U. S. NAVY

British and French Naval Commanders in Conference at Washington With Navy Department Heads—Uncle Sam to Keep This Side of Atlantic Clear—Internal Situation Mixed.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 13.—America's share in combating the German submarine menace has been definitely mapped out.

The conferences that have been held here by British and French naval commanders and officials of the American navy department have settled what part Uncle Sam's navy is to play in keeping sea lanes open. The plans are now understood to be entirely complete. It is known, will take over the task of keeping this side of the Atlantic free of the submarine navy. The British and French navies have maintained a large guard of warships on this side of the ocean ever since the outbreak of the war. All of these vessels will be released for duty elsewhere by America's entrance into the war.

The war department is not far behind the navy in mapping out its plans for placing the country in the best possible state of defense and at the same time preparing to carry out a vigorous offensive war. Officials are confident that the announcement coming from the department that men now enlisting will be released if they desire at the end of the war will bring a great influx of recruits. It is believed that many have hung back fearing to get "tied up" with a long enlistment. Now, however, the situation is put on a war basis and the volunteer system is on trial for its life. If the recruiting is not greatly stimulated within the next few days conscription will come. Officials state this determinedly. Secretary Baker stated when he was before the House military affairs committee in support of the universal training bill.

We stand firmly and unalterably in support of that bill, without modification of its least detail," he said.

South American Co-operation.

The progress of German-South American relations is being watched closely and with intense satisfaction by officials here. Brazil's declaration of war against the Hohenzollerns cannot long be delayed it is believed. Argentina showed by her communication to the state department regarding the German-American war that she was in accord with the principles which led the United States to take up the sword. The internal situation was raising officials' apprehensions today. The Edgemoor and Frankford explosions—even though the latter was officially described as an "accident"—and the revelation of plots to blow up many public works throughout the country has aroused strong agitation in some quarters for the government to declare a state of martial law immediately surrounding important points. Guardsmen who now are protecting such places are working under handicaps.

Mr. Brainerd said the condition confronting the banks was different now from what it had been when the superintendent last year had indicated his opinion on the application, then made.

Attorney Arthur C. Connolly, for the proposed trust company, urged that considerable time had been spent in gathering together a list of 141 stockholders whose subscriptions were dependent upon the charter being granted. Attorney Van Wagoner said that the 141 men could be harmed no more than the 20,000 savings bank depositors and the 30,000 savings and national bank depositors whose interests he and his associates were trying to protect.

Judge Betts, for the Kingston Savings Bank and the National Uster County Bank, called attention to the fact that the rate of interest on the proposed seven billion dollar government loan was undetermined and would affect the rate of interest paid by the existing banks.

Over Until May 1st.

Superintendent Richards said he would put it over until after the first of May, with the understanding that the rights of the petitioners are preserved. He would like to know, he said, the exact financial status of the government before acting.

Those present in behalf of the trust company were: Attorney Gilbert F. Kennedy, Albert H. Cook, William J. Turk, John Millard, Joseph Krieger, Mr. Clyde Crosby, A. H. Crosby, E. H. Powell, William B. Byrne.

The banks were represented by Judge Clearwater, Edward Coker, Judge Betts, F. J. H. Clarke, Delaney N. Matthews, ex-Mayor William D. Brainerd, Dr. E. H. Loughran, John B. Alliger, Philip Elting, Virgil B. Van Wagoner, Joseph M. Schaefer, Martin Cantine, Charles Tappen, Clarence P. Hendricks, A. E. Rose, Garret N. Oliver.

ESTABLISH WAR ZONE FOR AMERICAN PORTS

All Ships Entering "Defensive Areas" After Sunset Will be Fired Upon Without Warning—Ten Miles of New York Harbor Within Prescribed Areas.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

President Wilson, by executive order, established the "war zones" after receiving information from the navy department. Vessels entering these "defensive areas" after sunset will be fired upon without question. And at no time can a vessel in these districts travel at a speed greater than five knots an hour.

SPELLBINDERS TO BE SET AT WORK

Washington, April 13.—The administration is planning to organize the foremost publicists of the United States in a publicity campaign designed to arouse the patriotism of the American people and educate them up to the task of prosecuting the war with Germany successfully.

Writers whose names are known to the majority of the people will be drawn into the organization and their talents will be set to work on bringing about the greatest concentration of public thought and endeavor possible. The results are expected to be tremendous.

The force of this publicity will be directed toward inducing people to yield up their savings to buy war bonds, to put forward their best efforts to increase production and to exercise all their resourcefulness to practice economies which will conserve the nation's wealth.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP RAILWAY BRIDGE

Portland, Me., April 13.—What is regarded by the authorities as an attempt to blow up the bridge on the Grand Trunk railroad between Portland and Passadumkeag proved unsuccessful early today.

William Hay, a guard stationed at the bridge, heard the chugging of a motor boat. He walked out onto the bridge. Failing to detect any boat he sat straightened up when he was struck over the head from behind and knocked down. His assailant fired two shots at him as he lay on the bridge. One shot tore away a part of the flesh on his left arm.

Hay fired back at the man and also at the shadow of the motor boat as it disappeared in the fog. The boat had evidently been waiting at the pier of the draw for the men who attempted to kill Hay. The bridge is the most important one in this section as it is the best means of connecting with Canadian points and from there to Maine points. A special train of guards was sent out from Portland and the bridge was thoroughly inspected. No trace of any damage could be found. Neither did those searching find anything that looked like a bomb.

Things Taboo on Thirteenth.

Friday the Thirteenth—an unlucky day to try to cross the Wilbur bridge. To run an automobile without a 1917 license tag, to kid sentences on the aqueduct, to oppose or to seek a bank charter (just which we will know later), to drink more than eleven beer, to ill treat the American flag, to keep trout under night inches, to jump on or off moving trains, to get into trouble with the police, to clean house, to take 'em off and enter the lightweight class.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

How many homes one goes into that have perfectly useless, homely things in conspicuous places! What a gain for repose and beauty, to say nothing of space, if these objects could be eliminated.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

To serve a variety of food and keep within the limits of one's allowance is the aim of all just housewives. If at one meal too much is used it may be balanced by a simpler less expensive food at the next, thus keeping the daily or weekly expenditure well balanced.

Baked Kidney Beans.—Soak three cupsful of kidney beans overnight; in the morning parboil with four large onions. Put into the bean pot with a pint of stewed tomatoes, a third of a teaspoonful of pepper, a tablespoonful each of sugar and salt and a half pound of salt pork. Bury the beans in the pork and add just enough water to cover the beans. Bake about five hours in a moderate oven. If the onions are not liked, they may be omitted and a teaspoonful of mustard added to the sugar and salt to season. For those who do not care for the salt pork use a cupful or less of olive oil, baking them as above.

Club Salad.—Take one and a half cupfuls of chicken (cold roasted), 12 slices of cooked bacon, three tomatoes and lettuce. Arrange the lettuce on individual plates, place on this a slice of peeled tomato, then a little of the diced bacon, and a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing; top with some of the chicken, more mayonnaise and a sprig of parsley. Around each, spoke-fashion, place four or six tiny toast points for a garnish.

Oatmeal Bread.—Pour a pint of boiling water over a cupful of rolled oats and set aside until the mixture is lukewarm; add a half cupful of molasses, a half yeast cake, dissolved in a little lukewarm water, and a cupful and a half of bread flour. When this is light, add a teaspoonful of salt and enough flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Let it rise until double its bulk, cut down and turn into greased tins. Let rise again and bake three-quarters of an hour. This makes two loaves.

Another Thousand Island Dressing.—Take a cupful of thick mayonnaise, six tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, two chopped red peppers, half a tablespoonful of chopped chives. Use on pea and waxbean salad.

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR SAUGERTIES

Pursuant to the resolution passed by the citizens meeting held at the Saugerties high school assembly hall, Monday evening, Chairman Martin Cantine has appointed Mayor William Ziegler, John T. Washburn, Frederick E. W. Darrow, Bishop Bonaventure P. Broderick and John A. Snyder a committee of five to name a committee of one person from each election district of the town of Saugerties to report at the next meeting.

This committee will report at a public meeting to be held Monday, April 16, when the Hon. William D. Cunningham, judge of the court of claims, will speak on the "war situation."

Great interest is being shown on the part of the citizens and committee members will be appointed to take up the following branches of the work: proper patriotic spirit, and a respect for the flag, recruits and recruiting, statistics and census, prevention of extravagance and the elimination of waste and larger use of agricultural lands and greater efficiency thereof. The work of Saugerties is under the direction of Martin Cantine, chairman, Lawrence M. Kenny, secretary, and in conjunction with the county committee of which Judge Hasbrouck is chairman and Edward Coykendall, secretary.

URGENT INTEREST IN NAVY.

Saugerties Citizens May Have Navy League Branch.

Quite a few citizens of Saugerties met at the home of Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow, corner of Main and West Bridge streets, Thursday afternoon, April 12, called together at the suggestion of Poultny Bigelow of Malden for the purpose of increasing interest in the work of the navy or the formation of a Saugerties branch of the Navy League.

Among those who spoke were Poultny Bigelow, author of "Prussian Memories," Martin Cantine, president of the Home Defense Committee, Countess von Krockow, the Rev. Jeremiah V. Wemple, Mayor William Ziegler and Frederick E. W. Darrow. It was the consensus of opinion that the work of the navy was the first line of defense and greater interests should be shown in its work, and a study made of modern methods of naval warfare and defense.

A temporary organization was effected by the selection of Poultny Bigelow as temporary chairman and Richard C. Washburn as secretary.

A committee on organization was appointed consisting of Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow, the Rev. Jeremiah V. Wemple and George W. Steenken to report at a future meeting.

WHO IS BEST BREAD-MAKER?

Housewives' Competition Will End on Saturday Afternoon.

The bread-baking contest being conducted by the J. T. Johnson hardware store on Broadway, will close on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the prizes will be awarded to the winners by the judges for the best loaf of bread baked by a Kingston housewife. The judges who will act in awarding the prizes are Mrs. M. J. Michael, Mrs. H. R. Brigham and Mrs. C. P. Ashurst. The contest is open to any one in Kingston and every one is invited to bake a loaf of bread and enter it in the contest before the closing date. After the prizes have been awarded the bread will be donated to the Industrial Home by the Johnson Company. The contest is being conducted in the interest of the Universal Company, makers of food choppers and other kitchen necessities, and the prizes to be awarded will be from the stock of Universal kitchen utensils, for which the Johnson store is the local agent.

FOR FOOD CONSERVATION.

Subsistants to Can, Conserve and Co-operate.

Mrs. John W. Searing, the newly elected chairman of the Kingston Women's Suffrage party, has been appointed chairman of a food conservation committee of Ulster county by Mrs. Gordon Norrie, chairman of the Tenth Campaign district. This committee will co-operate with the Governor's Home Defense Committee of Seven and will give that body every aid in its power.

Mrs. Searing says the committee has engaged a canning expert to instruct canning classes in Ulster county and will distribute seeds for planting and arrange for the inspection of gardens. The committee has at its disposal an automobile and an organizer who will assist in the organization. The canning classes will be a feature of the work in order that fruit and vegetables that would otherwise be wasted can be canned immediately.

Lost in R-G-R Store.

After wandering around the big Rose-Gorman-Rose department store for several hours a little three year old son of John Phillips of Furnace street was finally noticed by Officer Ryan with the aid of several sticks of candy to accompany him to the sheriff's office while the authorities located his parents. Employees of the store noticed the little fellow wandering around the store inspecting every department and finally telephoned to Chief Wood and he communicated with Officer Ryan through the police signal system. Every effort to get the little fellow to tell his name failed and he was saved in charge of Jailer Bob Evers until his mother called later in the afternoon and took him home.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

How many homes one goes into that have perfectly useless, homely things in conspicuous places? What a gain for respect and beauty, to say nothing of space, if these objects could be eliminated.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

To serve a variety of food and keep within the limits of one's allowance is the aim of all just housewives. If at one meal too much is used it may be balanced by a simpler less expensive food at the next, thus keeping the daily or weekly expenditure well balanced.

Baked Kidney Beans.—Soak three cupsful of kidney beans over night; in the morning parboil with four large onions. Put into the bean pot with a pint of stewed tomatoes, a third of a teaspoonful of pepper, a tablespoonful each of sugar and salt and a half pound of salt pork. Bury the beans in the pork and add just enough water to cover the beans. Bake about five hours in a moderate oven. If the onions are not liked, they may be omitted and a teaspoonful of mustard added to the sugar and salt to season. For those who do not care for the salt pork use a cupful or less of olive oil, baking them as above.

Club Salad.—Take one and a half cupsful of chicken (cold roasted), 12 slices of cooked bacon, three tomatoes and lettuce. Arrange the lettuce on individual plates, place on this a slice of peeled tomato, then a little of the diced bacon, and a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing; top with some of the chicken, more mayonnaise and a sprig of parsley. Around each, spoon-fashion, place four or six tiny toast points for a garnish.

Oatmeal Bread.—Pour a pint of boiling water over a cupful of rolled oats and set aside until the mixture is lukewarm; add a half cupful of molasses, a half yeast cake, dissolved in a little lukewarm water, and a cupful and a half of bread flour. When this is light, add a teaspoonful of salt and enough flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Let it rise until double its bulk, cut down and turn into greased tins. Let rise again and bake three-quarters of an hour. This makes two loaves.

Another Thousand Island Dressing.—Take a cupful of thick mayonnaise, six tablespoonfuls of chili sauce, two chopped red peppers, half a tablespoonful of chopped chives. Use on pen and warman salad.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 13, 1917.

We may be forgiven if we confess that we have forgotten the date set for "Hog and Chicken Day," which is soon to be celebrated the length and breadth of this fair land of ours. Arbor Day and Clean-up Week are as fixed in our mental calendar as the constellations in the firmament. But the pressure grows greater. Dress-up week passed. Kingston by completely, probably because so many of our citizens emphasize that feature for the full fifty-two weeks the year allows. It is getting so that the calendar is inadequate to meet the requirements of these extraordinary and special occasions and will have to be reformed, else we will be duplicating celebrations. "Paul Revere Day" has been picked by patriots who enthrall but never enlist for April 19, the anniversary of the ride that aroused the Middlesex county farmers, the object being to awaken the country to the importance of immediately filling up the ranks of the army and navy. Longfellow's famous poem is to be recited in the schools and the famous line, "If the British march by land or sea," will be just as pertinent to these times as the ride of Revere is to recruiting.

It may be heresy in the view of some of these zealous patriots, but it seems to us that the way to recruit is to recruit. Sound the call for volunteers to the army and navy with every ounce of effort possible on the part of press and public officers. Then, if the number of responses be insufficient, resort to conscription. That is probably the program of Congress, which is showing signs of a revolt against the selective conscription scheme but which, nevertheless, will be forced to a realization of the actual need for men. The volunteer system takes the best and leaves the slacker to sit around and pay honor to the flag at home, or criticize the conduct of the war. If we are to take a leaf from the experience overseas, the quicker this country gets down to universal service with the fundamental democracy such a system entails, the better off it will be and the better able to defend itself against invasion and protect its rights against aggression anywhere in the world. But the purpose of establishing universal service is in no way inconsistent with earnest efforts to raise a volunteer army at once.

Young men in New York city, anxious to avoid military service, may be making a rush for marriage licenses, but in Kingston the rush has been to the registrar of vital statistics by youths anxious to obtain a certified copy of their respective birth dates in order to satisfy the requirements of recruiting officers. This is a patriotism that is more in keeping with Kingston tradition than some other expressions which have been improperly labelled. One of these days we expect and hope to see a recruiting agency established in this city, so that young men may have an opportunity to volunteer their services direct instead of depending upon information from other cities. An office in Kingston would be the first definite move for recruits to be made here and would undoubtedly meet with a hearty response from the youth of this city and vicinity.

Continuing naturalizations of German residents were reported from different American cities up to the date of an officially declared state of war, but from that date the process ceased pending the duration of hostilities. "No alien," reads the law, "who is a native citizen or subject, or a denizen of any country, State or sovereignty with which the United States are at war at the time of his application, shall be then admitted to become a citizen of the United States." This automatic stoppage of the process of naturalization applies also to German subjects who have taken out their first papers in this country, the law providing that the candidate for citizenship "remains an alien until naturalization is complete." But neither resident Germans who wish nor those who do not wish to become citizens have anything to fear from the American government or people if they engage only in their legitimate business, obey the laws applying to them, and remember that the time has come to cease to argue Germany's cause in any public place or mixed assembly.

Majority Leader Brown has informed the State Senate that before this session ends he will ask the Legislature to pass a bill suspending the compulsory education law provisions, so that school children may be permitted to work on farms. This is a most sane and sensible proposal, one we hope to see enacted. If there was ever a time when help was needed on our farms it is the present and the work of school children will be an important contribution toward making up the ever-lessening supply of farm labor. Secretary of the Interior Lane tells the women of America that the best way to serve the country is to can all the fruits and vegetables possible and eliminate waste in the household. The gardening movement is plainly another conservation plan whose results will be most beneficial and far-reaching. Removing legal barriers to permit of school children helping out on the farm is a most proper step for action by the Legislature.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Dableigh—"There is one thing I don't understand," Miss Keen—"Oh, more than that, surely."—Boston Transcript.

"Does your wife believe everything you tell her?" "Yes. She believes everything I tell her is wrong."—Detroit Free Press.

Maud—"Miss Olden thinks that hotel clerk just lovely." Ethel—"Why so?" Maud—"He wrote opposite her name on the hotel register: Suite 16."—Puck.

He (just after being accepted)—"I—er—want to confess that I've been engaged once before." She—"Oh, you slow-poke, why, this is my fifth."—Judge.

"Pop, what does it mean when a man says he will die in his boots?" "It means, my son, that he is going to do his best to keep body and soul together."—Baltimore American.

"You say that Miss Oldstyle is suffering from severe mental shock? What caused it?" "Why, she's been claiming that she's only twenty-eight years old and then somebody found her name in one of those '30 Years Ago' columns in the newspapers."—Buffalo Express.

Why Danny Didn't Start.

Danny Clements was captain of a schooner that plied between New York and Haverstraw. One day his craft was loaded with brick, ready to start for New York, but Danny gave no sign of any intention to get under way. Instead he sat on deck smoking a cigar.

The owner of the brickyard, also owner of the schooner, who had reasons for wishing the brick in New York at the earliest possible moment, came hurrying on board and demanded to know why Danny didn't sail.

"There's no wind," said Danny. "No wind? What's the matter with you? There's Morgan's schooner under sail going down the river now."

"Yes, Ol' been watchin' her, but it's no use my gettin' under way," replied Danny. "She's got the wind now, and, to me mind, there ain't enough of it for two."—New York Times.

A Saint's Little Joke.

"Even that prince of monks and of saints (St. Thomas Aquinas) loved his little joke." "Ah, Father Abbot," said his mulletier by the lakes of Switzerland, "why do you not admire the scenery?" "My son, I was saying my prayers." "But I can admire the lakes and the hills and say my prayers, too." "Come," was the response, "I will make you an offer. If you can say one Pater Noster without distraction you shall have my mule." Down went the man upon his knees. "Pater noster qui es in coelis—and the saddle too, Father Abbot." "No, my son, nothing."—Catholic Advance.

A General Restitution.

"Look, mother," said little Bobby, proudly exhibiting a hatful of marbles "I won all these from Willie Smith."

"Why, Bobby," exclaimed his mother, "don't you know it's wicked to play marbles for keeps? Go right over to Willie's house and give him back every one of his marbles."

"Yes, mother," said the boy solemnly. "And shall I take that vase you won at Mrs. Smith's whist party and give it back to her?" "Till-bits."

AUSTRIANS HELD IN HOMICIDE CASE

Marlborough Justice Discharges Two of Participants in Cedarcliff Shooting and Holds Kusun and Rossiter for Grand Jury.

The four Austrians who were arrested following a shooting affray at Cedarcliff on April 6, were taken to Marlborough where a hearing was held before Justice of the Peace Johnson Thursday afternoon after which two were discharged from custody. Joseph Silanovich and Peter Framich were discharged while Joseph Kusun and Victor Rossiter were held to await the action of the grand jury. Assistant District Attorney DePuy Hasbrouck and Leroy Lounsbury appeared for The People and William D. Brinnier appeared for Kusun, Rossiter and Silanovich, Framich was represented by Andrew Cook.

The shooting was the outcome of a feud of long standing in the Austrian colony at Cedarcliff. In the affair two gangs clashed and when the smoke of the battle cleared away two of the victims were so badly injured that they are still confined to the hospital and one, Andrew Framich, died in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, as a result of the wounds he sustained.

Kusun was recently released from jail under a writ of habeas corpus and is said to be a leader or one of the gangs which did the shooting. He is feared by the populace in the vicinity where he lives. The prisoners were taken to Marlborough Thursday by Sheriff Shultis and Under Sheriff Scott Hornbeck, who made the arrests after the shooting. The two prisoners held were brought back and lodged in the county jail.

Moving Pictures in Alaska.

Every coast town in Alaska, from Juneau to Nome, and practically every town with a population of 200 or more has a moving picture theater. All get the best films and produce the biggest features. The picture theater at Candice, 200 miles north of Nome, is located nearer the pole than any other picture show in the world. Prices of admission range from 25 cents to 50 cents in coast towns and generally $1 in interior towns like Fairbanks and Iditarod. When features of unusual merit or expense are put on the admission price is raised, having in a few instances been as high as $5 for extraordinary attractions.

ULTRA MILLINERY.

How the Chinese Idea is Coloring the New Headgear.

This season seems to have brought with it two very different and distinct styles of hats, one in the usual colors and the other a strong Chinese note which dominates everything and produces most weird but wonderful effects.

In the first class there is a hat somewhat small in shape, with round, high crown and narrow brim turned down. This hat is entirely of soft peach colored crepe. Directly in the front are two round, flat ornaments meant to represent flowers. One is of crepe and the other of satin. Both are pink, but one is slightly deeper in color than the satin one.

On either side of the flowers are leaves made of twisted loops of panne velvet, held in place with tiny invisible stitches. It is a very sweet and dainty hat and one which any home milliner can copy, for the flat flowers are made exactly like flat cardboard pin cushions covered with satin or velvet, only it would be better to substitute buckram for cardboard.

After the circles are covered with the material buttonhole stitch around the edge with heavy silk of the same color, making the stitches a quarter of an inch long and the same distance apart.

The wonderful silks used to trim these hats are often dull in color, with here and there a truly oriental design embroidered or printed in the most blazing colors.

A hat will have a crown covered with silk as described and a plain upper brim and the under brim of some soft color near the face and an all over silk pattern near the edge, three entirely different materials—different in texture, design and color—all on one hat, yet in perfect harmony of color.

The conservative woman may not look upon these hats with favor, but sooner or later, being a woman, she will succumb to the charm of these wonderful oriental effects, which are chiefly Chinese in character.

Tassels still demand attention, even on hats. A hat of dull blue straw trimmed with black silk, with here and there a blue, green and gold motif, had a long tassel extending from the center of the crown down over the brim. This tassel was fastened to an odd cord affair partly made of ribbon and partly of straw. It started from the center of a stiff little upright ruffle of black ribbon on the crown, and near the end where the black and gold tassel was attached was an odd tricolored carved head.

CORRECT FOR SPRING.

The Kind of Useful Suit Every Maiden Needs.

Black and tan wool checkerboard plaids make this modish suit cut finger tip length coat, sash belt and close.

ly platted skirt. Black buttons close it, and a black velvet collar adds chic. The hat is a black chip trimmed with tan ribbon.

Capes of Marabou.

Marabou capes similar to the fur capes of the winter will be worn this spring. They are admirable as accessories of the modish straight little one piece frocks. These capes are of white or brown marabou in various styles, and they reach to the hips. There will also be smaller models fashioned in two tones. For instance, there may be a collar and yoke of white marabou finished with a deep border of white feathers striped with gray, or perhaps there will be little tufts of snowy ostrich on a marabou foundation.

Black and white speckled feathers make an effective edging to a plain white bon, the ends of which have enormous tassels of feathers.

Fancy.

"Are those fancy chickens you are raising?" "I should say so," returned Mr. Crossroads. "Judging by my bills for chicken feed, every one of them is an epicure."

SCALE OF MILES

BEGINNING OF THE GREAT BRITISH DRIVE.

This map illustrates the beginning of the great British drive which has resulted, according to varying reports, in the capture of from 6,000 to 9,000 prisoners and many guns. Striking on a twelve-mile front from Lens to south Arras, as indicated by arrows, the British penetrated the German lines to a depth of two to three miles. Important gains were also made toward Cambrai and north of St. Quentin, at the points marked by arrows.

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR SAUGERTIES

Pursuant to the resolution passed by the citizens meeting held at the Saugerties high school assembly hall, Monday evening, Chairman Martin Cantine has appointed Mayor William Ziegler, John T. Washburn, Frederick E. W. Darrow, Bishop Bonaventure F. Broderick and John A. Snyder a committee of five to name a committee of one person from each election district of the town of Saugerties to report at the next meeting.

This committee will report at a public meeting to be held Monday, April 16, when the Hon. William D. Cunningham, judge of the court of claims, will speak on the "war situation."

What is best is being known on the part of the citizens and committee. All are expected to take up the following branches of the work: proper patriotic spirit, and a respect for the flag, recruits and recruiting, statistics and census, prevention of extravagance and the elimination of waste and larger use of agricultural lands and greater efficiency thereof. The work of Saugerties is under the direction of Martin Cantine, chairman, Lawrence M. Kenny, secretary, and in conjunction with the county committee of which Judge Jacobus is chairman and Edward Cockrell, secretary.

URGENT INTEREST IN NAVY.

Saugerties Citizens May Have Navy League Branch.

Quite a few citizens of Saugerties met at the home of Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow, corner of Main and West Bridge streets, Thursday afternoon April 12, called together at the suggestion of Poulney Bigelow of Malden for the purpose of increasing interest in the work of the navy or the formation of a Saugerties branch of the Navy League.

Among those who spoke were Poulney Bigelow, author of "Prussian Memories," Martin Cantine, president of the Home Defense Committee, Countess von Klockow, the Rev. Jeremiah V. Wemple, Mayor William Ziegler and Frederick E. W. Darrow. It was the consensus of opinion that the work of the navy was the most line of defense and greater interests should be shown in its work, and a study made of modern methods of naval warfare and defense.

A temporary organization was effected by the selection of Poulney Bigelow as temporary chairman and Richard C. Washburn as secretary. A committee on organization was appointed consisting of Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow, the Rev. Jeremiah V. Wemple and George W. Steunkon to report at a future meeting.

WHO IS BEST BREAD-MAKER?

Housewives' Competition Will End on Saturday Afternoon.

The bread-baking contest being conducted by the J. T. Johnson hardware store on Broadway, will close on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and the prize will be awarded to the winners by the judges for the best loaf of bread baked by a Kingston housewife. The judges who will act in awarding the prizes are Mrs. M. J. Michael, Mrs. H. R. Brigham and Mrs. C. P. Ashby. The contest is open to any one in Kingston and every one is invited to bake a loaf of bread and enter it in the contest before the closing date. After the closing date the bread will be awarded to the Industrial Home by the Johnson Company. The contest is being conducted in the interest of the Universal Company, makers of food choppers and other kitchen necessities, and the prizes to be awarded will be from the stock of Universal Kitchen utensils, for which the Johnson store is the local agent.

FOR FOOD CONSERVATION.

Volunteers to Can, Conserve and Cooperate.

Mrs. John W. Seering, the newly elected chairman of the Kingston Women Suffrage party, has been appointed chairman of a food conservation committee of Ulster county, with Mrs. Gordon Norrie, chairman of the local campaign district. This committee will co-operate with the Governor's Home Defense Committee of Seven and will give that body every aid in its power.

Mrs. Seering says the committee has organized a canning class to include canning classes in Ulster county and will distribute seeds for planting and arrange for the inspection of gardens. The committee has also disposed an automobile and an amateur who will assist in the organization. The canning classes will be a feature of the work in order that fruit and vegetables that would otherwise be wasted can be used immediately.

Lost in R-G-R Store.

After wandering around the big Rose-Gorman-Rose department store for several hours a little three year old son of John Phillips of Furnace street was finally enticed by Officer Ryan with the aid of several sticks of candy to accompany him to the police office while the authorities looked for his parents. Employees of the store noticed the little fellow wandering around the store inspection department and finally informed Chief Wood and he accompanied with Officer Ryan to the police station. Officer Ryan's effort to get the little fellow to his name failed and he was taken in charge of Jailer Bob Brown and his mother called later in the afternoon and took him home.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Talking about crap games," said the street corner politician to his friend, "I heard a hot one today."

"What was that?" asked the friend.

"It seems," said the politician, "that a certain young man somewhere in Ulster county was sued by his wife for a separation."

"What has that to do with shooting crap?" asked the friend, adding "although I'll admit that marriage and shooting crap are similar in some respects."

"What do you mean?" queried the politician.

"Both are a gamble," retorted the friend, with a chuckle.

"It's easily seen you are not a married man," replied the politician.

"But to get back to the yarn," continued the politician, "it seems that he did not contest the suit and the court allowed his wife so much a week alimony pending a final decision in the case."

"I am still in the dark," interrupted the friend.

"Well," continued the politician, "it seems that the young man was caught shooting crap, and when a friend asked him if he did not know he was taking a chance of being arrested by the cops he replied that he had to take a chance anyway."

"How was that?" asked the friend.

"His weekly alimony was due," explained the politician, "and he had not enough money to pay it."

"What was he shooting crap for then?" queried the friend.

"To see if he could not win the amount needed," explained the politician.

"Changing the subject," continued the politician, "did you hear the yarn about the German spy?"

"No," replied the friend, "what was that?"

"It seems that there was a stranger in town," explained the politician, "who was looking to buy some land."

"Yes," said the friend.

"Well he was taken out in the country by a local resident and shown some land, but refused to buy," said the politician.

"Maybe the site did not suit him," interrupted the friend.

"You hit it right," said the politician, "he wanted to get nearer the city."

"But where does the spy come in?" queried the friend.

"He has just come in," replied the politician.

"What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Because he wanted to get land nearer the city," explained the politician, "the man who wanted to sell him land thought he was a spy."

"That's a good reason," commented the friend.

"About as good as any furnished in the various spy stories set afloat recently," said the politician.

"Did you read in the newspaper how another man was shot by a soldier?" asked the friend.

"Yes, I did," replied the politician, "and it simply goes to show that when a man in uniform shouts 'halt' the best plan is to stand still, and ask questions afterward."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"We are so used to considering ourselves as good as any one else in the country," explained the politician, "that we are finding it hard to realize that we are under a partial military law at the present time."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"All big public utilities and railroads are under guard," continued the politician, "and folks are not allowed to trespass on railroad property as in former times."

"That means," continued the politician, "that we are not allowed to take the short cuts now that we used to take."

"I have found that out," commented the friend.

"Take for instance a friend of ours," continued the politician, "he went to Catskill the other day and on his way back to the railroad station took a short cut and was suddenly halted by the guard."

"Did he stop?" asked the friend.

"You bet he stopped," said the politician, "and he showed hard practical sense by stopping, too."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"If he had not stopped," explained the politician, "he might have stopped a bullet."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"All soldiers are under orders to cry 'halt' three times," explained the politician, "and then if the person halted to does not stop they are commanded to shoot to hit."

"It pays to halt then," commented the friend.

"You said something then," replied the politician, "and if people would only realize that fact you would hear of less shooting."

THE CLOTHES MOTH.

How to Deal With This Destructive Household Pest.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—At this season of the year the tiny, yellowish moth which is seen occasionally flitting about the lamp at night is an indication to the housekeeper that clothes moths are beginning their work of destruction. In other words, egg laying by these little moths is now under way, and within a month in the latitude of the District of Columbia, later northward and earlier southward, the eating of woollens and furs by the tiny caterpillars coming from these eggs may be anticipated.

The moths which are thus attracted to the lamps at night or fly away from garments or portieres when these are handled do not themselves eat anything and could not eat if they wanted to, as they have no biting or chewing mouth parts. The destruction, as every housekeeper knows, is occasioned entirely by the tiny larvae working underneath scanty webs or in little cases made from particles of the garments on which they feed webbed together by a whitish silk. The common clothes moth of this country is the webbing species, known as the webbing or southern clothes moth, and its presence on garments can be detected by this smoky or whitish web which is in evidence even before the garments have been much eaten. If from these indications the larvae are discovered in time, the larvae and webs can be easily removed by a stiff brushing of the garments.

The protection of woollens, furs and feathers and like materials from the attacks of the larvae of these moths is secured only by constant vigilance and careful inspection and treatment.

As early as possible in the spring, all woollens, furs, etc., the use of which can be dispensed with, should be put away in safe storage for the summer. Before being packed away such articles should be thoroughly brushed and beaten and, if possible, exposed to the strong sunlight for several hours out of doors. The brushing is very important in order to remove the eggs or young larvae which may have escaped notice. Articles so cleaned and sunned should then be put away in moth-proof containers. Materials which can not be thus put away should be given the same thorough cleaning and reinspection during the summer, preferably every two weeks. In no case should such examinations be at intervals of greater than three weeks or a month.

Woolen clothing and furs, etc., may be packed away safely for the summer by enclosing them in several wrappings of paper or in well-made bags of cotton or linen cloth or in paper sacks which can be tied or otherwise securely fastened, to prevent ingress of the moths. In these packages can be placed such repellents as tobacco dust, camphor, naphthalene cones or balls and cedar chips, etc. The odors of these substances are disagreeable to the parent moths and act as a repellent, but they will not kill eggs or larvae which may be enclosed in the packages. Hence the necessity of the thoroughgoing cleaning and airing prior to packing away. The same precautions are needed with cedar chests and wardrobes.

The best means of protection from clothes moths and a method now available in all larger towns, are the refrigerating rooms provided for that purpose in practically all storage warehouses, and the adoption of this method of protection for all valuable garments or furs during the hot months is strongly recommended.

Articles in daily or weekly use, and apartments frequently aired and swept or used as living rooms, are not apt to be seriously attacked. There is a risk that under these conditions attached carpets may be eaten around the border where the insects are not so much disturbed by walking and sweeping, and particular attention should be given to the border areas. Loose rugs are much less apt to be injured, but it is a good plan during the summer, if these are allowed to remain on the floor, to turn them over and thoroughly sweep or brush the under surface once every two or three weeks.

Rugs or carpets put away for the summer should be first thoroughly cleaned on both sides and beaten and then wrapped up in tight rolls protected by wrapping with tar paper. The additional covering or baling with burlap is not necessary except where the rolls or bales are to be transported or will require considerable handling.

To Hold An Ox Roast.

For the first time in over thirty years an ox roast will be held in Kingston. The members of Washington Camp, No. 2, P. O. S. of A., are planning to renew this old time form of entertainment and according to old residents of Kingston the last ox roast held in town was some thirty years ago when such an event was held on the old circus grounds in O'Reilly's grove. The camp will probably hold the roast some time during the week of July 4, when they will hold a carnival at the Athletic Field. The camp some time ago decided to hold a carnival and have decided upon the week of July 4 and at the same time will hold their ox roast in connection with the carnival.

ANNUAL DEBATE AT HIGH SCHOOL

This evening at eight o'clock the Varsity debating team of Kingston H. S. will debate against Poughkeepsie H. S. in the high school auditorium. The question which Poughkeepsie submitted in challenging the local team is worded: Resolved, that the literacy test clause of the recently passed immigration bill will conduce to the welfare of the U. S.

The annual Poughkeepsie debate has now become one of the time honored events of high school life in Kingston and usually there is great interest shown by the students and citizens of the two cities. Last year the local team was defeated for the first time in three years and the team this year have no intention of allowing the down river trio to repeat the performance.

The speeches of each of the six men will be ten minutes in length and the rebuttal 12 minutes. The judges are Judge Jenkins of Kingston, the Hon. F. Conger of Poughkeepsie and Principal Marsh of Highland high school. The local varsity team is Edward Stelle, leader; Travis Gillette and Leonard Lockwood.

When the speaking is over and while the judges are making their decision, the audience will be entertained with a solo by Miss Ruth Shaffer, Lawrence Cavanaugh playing the violin obligato. Mr. Cavanaugh will also give a violin solo and lead the orchestra in several selections during the evening.

This question of the future restriction of immigration is one that has engaged a great deal of public interest for the last twenty years. The literacy test restriction has been voted more times than any bill ever before congress. The part which allens play in our country's progress and the problems they occasion are something that every one thinks more or less about, especially now during the present turmoil.

The young men debating tonight have put a great deal of time in research, probably all together 500 hours of work, so that although young, they will have facts and figures to offer tonight which will be new to most of their audience, and which must lead some to a better understanding of the question.

After the debate there will be an informal dance in the gymnasium.

Port and Impertinent.

A young woman of a pink complexion, but of heroic build—a kind way of denoting obesity—applied to a moving picture director for a position as an extra girl. She presented him a personal letter of introduction. Long years ago, it seems, the director knew her father and mother. As he gazed at this plump June the light of memory came into his eyes, but still he was not quite certain about something.

"Let me see," he mused, "which side of the house do you resemble the most?"

"Sir," she cried in accent far from mild, "I don't resemble any side of any old house!"—Topeka State Journal.

MENTAL ENERGY.

It pays to think. It is like putting money out at interest. Dollars make dollars, and thoughts make other thoughts. We are so accustomed to having this old world reward us for things we do in dollars that we forget there is such a reward as brains—mental growth. Happy the one who does all these things in their proper light, who recognizes in every failure a lesson learned, in every effort a reward.

AUSTRIANS HELD IN HOMICIDE CASE

Marlborough Justice Discharges Two of Participants in Cedarcliffe Shooting and Holds Kusun and Rossiter for Grand Jury.

The four Austrians who were arrested following a shooting affray at Cedarcliffe on April 6, were taken to Marlborough where a hearing was held before Justice of the Peace Johnson Thursday afternoon after which two were discharged from custody. Joseph Silanovich and Peter French were discharged while Joseph Kusun and Victor Rossiter were held to await the action of the grand jury. Assistant District Attorney DePuy Hasbrouck and Leroy Lounsbury appeared for the People and William D. Brinley appeared for Kusun. Rossiter and Silanovich, French was represented by Andrew Cook.

The shooting was the outcome of a feud of long standing in the Austrian colony at Cedarcliffe. In the affair two gangs clashed and when the smoke of the battle cleared away two of the victims were so badly injured that they are still confined to the hospital and one, Andrew French, died in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, as a result of the wounds he sustained. Kusun was recently released from jail under a writ of habeas corpus and is said to be a leader of one of the gangs which did the shooting. He is feared by the populace in the vicinity where he lives. The prisoners were taken to Marlborough Thursday by Sheriff Shults and Under Sheriff Scott Hornbeck, who made the arrests after the shooting. The two prisoners held were brought back and lodged in the county jail.

STREET FORCE IS BUSY CLEANING UP

Getting Streets Ready to be Oiled—

Oil Ordered in March is Still Delayed in Transit—Saving Daylight.

The members of the street department are busy cleaning up the city streets preparatory to oiling them. The street oil which was shipped early in the month is still somewhere between here and the plant from which it was shipped. This oil was ordered in March by the board of public works. Superintendent Van Lounsbury has had his men busy for some time cleaning up the streets and sweeping them and everything is in readiness to start laying the oil when it is received.

The street force started the first of the week in the saving daylight plan by starting to work at 7 o'clock in the morning and quitting at 4 o'clock. The old hours were from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Moving Pictures in Alaska.

Every coast town in Alaska, from Juneau to Nome, and practically every town with a population of 200 or more has a moving picture theater. All get the best films and produce the biggest features. The picture theater at Caudle, 200 miles north of Nome, is located nearer the pole than any other picture show in the world. Prices of admission range from 25 cents to 50 cents in coast towns and generally $1 in interior towns like Fairbanks and Ilituk. When features of unusual merit or expense are put on the admission price is raised, having in a few instances been as high as $5 for extraordinary attractions.

ULTRA MILLINERY.

How the Chinese Idea is Coloring the New Headgear.

This season seems to have brought with it two very different and distinct styles of hats, one in the usual colors and the other a strong Chinese note which dominates everything and produces most weird but wonderful effects.

In the first class there is a hat somewhat small in shape, with round, high crown and narrow brim turned down. This hat is entirely of soft peach colored crepe. Directly in the front are two round, flat ornaments meant to represent flowers. One is of crepe and the other of satin. Both are pink, but one is slightly deeper in color than the satin one.

On either side of the flowers are leaves made of twisted loops of panne velvet, held in place with tiny invisible stitches. It is a very sweet and dainty hat and one which any home milliner can copy, for the flat flowers are made exactly like flat cardboard pheasants covered with satin or velvet, only it would be better to substitute buckram for cardboard.

After the circles are covered with the material buttonhole stitch around the edge with heavy silk of the same color, making the stitches a quarter of an inch long and the same distance apart.

The wonderful silks used to trim these hats are often dull in color, with here and there a truly oriental design embroidered or printed in the most blazing colors.

A hat will have a crown covered with silk as described and a plain upper brim and the upper brim of some soft color near the face and an all over silk pattern near the edge, three entirely different materials—different in texture, design and color—all on one hat, yet in perfect harmony of color.

The conservative woman may not look upon these hats with favor, but sooner or later, being a woman, she will succumb to the charm of these wonderful oriental effects, which are chiefly Chinese in character.

Tassels still demand attention, even on hats. A hat of dull blue straw trimmed with black silk, with here and there a blue, green and gold motif, had a long tassel extending from the center of the crown down over the brim. This tassel was fastened to an odd cord affair partly made of ribbon and partly of straw. It started from the center of a stiff little upright ruffle of black ribbon on the crown, and near the end where the black and gold tassel was attached was an odd tricolored carved head.

BEGINNING OF THE GREAT BRITISH DRIVE.

This map illustrates the beginning of the great British drive which has resulted, according to varying reports, in the capture of from 6,000 to 2,000 prisoners and many guns. Striking on a twelve-mile front from Lens to south Arras, as indicated by arrows, the British penetrated the German lines to a depth of two to three miles. Important gains were also made toward Cambrai and north of St. Quentin, at the points marked by arrows.

ASKS ALL WOMEN TO DO THEIR BIT

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Heads Sensible Movement to Cut Out Society Events and Inaugurate Crusade for Economy—Brains Offered Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 13.—Led by Mrs. Wilson, wife of the president, and Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice president, the women of the capital today began a general curtailment of formal social events and at the same time inaugurated a crusade for personal and domestic economy as their "bit" toward the successful prosecution of the war. It is hoped that an example may thus be set the women of the country to reduce their scale of living to the simplest possible form.

Simultaneously an appeal went out to women's organizations throughout the land to lend their support to the movement. It is pointed out that if social life is reduced to the minimum all will be able to give more bountifully of their time and money for defense and relief work. It is sought to pledge leaders among women everywhere to wear inexpensive clothing and use only simple foods, watching against a waste of every kind.

Presidents of three of the leading colleges for women in the United States and other leading female educators are in Washington today urging that the government use the services of thousands of trained minds of American college women.

President Ellen T. Pendleton of Wellesley; President M. Carr Thomas of Bryn Mawr and President Mary Wolley of Mount Holyoke urge that college women can take the places of men in many lines of endeavor. They offer women trained in administration, in all branches of science and arts, in a word they offer the government brains—and brains if need be. If the time comes when it is necessary they say the American woman will do her part of the physical work of warfare.

Chicago, April 13.—Leading Chicago society and club women today generally endorsed the appeal issued by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice president, for social and household economies for the period of the war.

"Entertaining should be curtailed to the greatest possible extent" said Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, "and the same principle should apply to costly forms of amusement. It is the duty of every woman in a time like this to reduce her food budget so that she may give all she can to the nation."

New York, April 13.—Mrs. William Heath, president of the National Housewives League, today urged the support of the league's movement started in Washington by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and wife of the cabinet members to reduce the cost of living.

"I am greatly interested in the timely movement Mrs. Wilson started," said Mrs. Heath, "and I am glad to pledge my support to it. I have been studying the problem of conservation diligently, and I believe that it will have a widespread effect. I have been shocked of late at the read of extensive plans made by New York society for fancy dress balls and entertainments at a time when the country should conserve and protect its every resource. The housewives of America can show their patriotism by denying themselves some of the luxuries of life."

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work usually without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Day Freeman, February 17, 1917.

WEEDS SHOULD BE REMOVED

More Attention Should Be Given In Future to the Development of Aesthetic Possibilities of Highway Construction—Shrubbery Also Is of Economic Value.

The scramble in the past to secure so called permanent roads, economic roads, or even any roads at all, has almost entirely excluded any thought of beautifying the roadway by the planting or preserving of trees and shrubbery or by taking other steps which add to the appearance of the road. In the planning for and building of such a large mileage of highways which, as reports from all sections of the country indicate, will take place in the future, more attention should be given to the development of the aesthetic possibilities of highway construction.

What perfection has been attained in the art of road building at the present time is due to the automobile, and to the automobile may also be charged the great amount of road building activity in the nation today. Gravel roads have been bettered, and the traffic limits within which this type will prove economical have been greatly revised. Water bound macadam roads, formerly considered the height of excellence for country road construction, have quickly yielded under the automobile traffic, and it has been found necessary to treat their surface, thereby greatly increasing the service which they are able to render. Bituminous concrete, cement concrete and brick surfaces have been adapted for country roads and provide long lived, hard surfaced roads well suited to the needs of both horse drawn and automobile traffic.

Few there are who do not experience a pleasurable reaction when traveling a road lined with luxuriant trees which enhance the beauty of the landscape and supply refreshing shade from the summer's heat. Is it not proper that in the present day program of road building ing consideration should be given to the planting of trees along the roads, thus affording pleasure and comfort to the travelers of the future?

But the pleasure of trees is not the only way to beautify the roadside. Clean, well kept cuts and fills, sodded and free from unsightly weeds and brush, add very materially to the appearance of the turnpike. A span of years is not required to secure results, as is the case with tree planting. Attractiveness can be incorporated into the construction of the road and preserved as a part of the maintenance. And the additional cost is slight compared with the noticeable effect upon the appearance of the road.

Beauty is economy too. The growing of trees along the public roads removes to a degree the injurious effect of the wind on earth, gravel and macadam roads. In most parts of the United States trees are desirable since they prevent the road from becoming as dry and dusty as it would without the shade which they afford. Trees or shrubbery along cuts prevent the obstruction of the road by drifting snow to a large extent. Sodded banks overgrown with grass, besides being pleasing to the eye, prevent erosion and, in sandy soils, help retain the sand in place. To secure good side drainage the ditches must be kept free from weeds and brush, thereby greatly improving the road from a practical and aesthetic standpoint.

In the future, then, with a large mileage of scenic highways within its borders, a state may well say that its roads are its fortune. The influx of tourists seeking pleasure and entertainment in the changing landscapes will bring no inconsiderable financial return to the highest bidder for their favor—the section which offers the best and most attractive highways. Thus the beautification of the highways should bring economic and direct financial returns and make the roads a source of pride and joy to the community.—American City.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Talking about crap games" said the street corner politician to his friend, "I heard a hot one today."

"What was that?" asked the friend.

"It seems," said the politician, "that a certain young man some where in Ulster county was sued by his wife for a separation."

"What has that to do with shooting crap?" asked the friend, adding, "although I'll admit that marriage and shooting crap are similar in some respects."

"What do you mean?" queried the politician.

"Both are a gamble," retorted the friend, with a chuckle.

"It's easily seen you are not a married man," replied the politician.

"But to get back to the yarn continued the politician, 'it seems that he did not contest the suit and the court allowed his wife so much a week alimony pending a final decision in the case.'

"I am still in the dark," interrupted the friend.

"Well," continued the politician, "it seems that the young man was caught shooting crap, and when a friend asked him if he did not know he was taking a chance of being arrested by the cops he replied that he had to take a chance anyway."

"How was that?" asked the friend.

"His weekly alimony was due," explained the politician, "and he had not enough money to pay it."

"What was he shooting crap for then?" queried the friend.

"To see if he could not win the amount needed," explained the politician.

"Changing the subject," continued the politician, "did you hear the yarn about the German spy?"

"No," replied the friend, "what was that?"

"It seems that there was a stranger in town," explained the politician, "who was looking to buy some land."

"Yes," said the friend.

"Well he was taken out in the country by a local resident and shown some land but refused to buy," said the politician.

"Maybe the site did not suit him," interrupted the friend.

"You hit it right," said the politician, "he wanted to get nearer the city."

"But where does the spy come in?" queried the friend.

"He has just come in," replied the politician.

"What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Because he wanted to get land nearer the city," explained the politician, "the man who wanted to sell him land thought he was a spy."

"That's a good reason," commented the friend.

"About as good as any furnished in the various spy stories set afloat recently," said the politician.

"Did you read in the newspaper that a man was shot by a soldier?" asked the friend.

"Yes," replied the politician, "and it surely goes to show that when a man in uniform shouts 'halt' the best plan is to stand still, and ask questions afterward."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"We are so used to considering ourselves as good as any one else in the country," explained the politician, "that we are finding it hard to realize that we are under a partial military law at the present time."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"All big public utilities and railroads are under guard," continued the politician, "and folks are not allowed to trespass on railroad property as in former times."

"That means," continued the politician, "that we are not allowed to take the short cuts now that we used to take."

"I have found that out," commented the friend.

"Take for instance a friend of ours," continued the politician, "he went to Catskill the other day and on his way back to the railroad station took a short cut and was suddenly halted by the guard."

"Did he stop?" asked the friend.

"You bet he stopped," said the politician.

efficient, "and he showed hard practical sense by stopping, too."

"How is that?" asked the friend.

"If he had not stopped," explained the politician, "he might have stopped a bullet."

"What do you mean?" queried the friend.

"All soldiers are under orders to cry 'halt' three times," explained the politician, "and then if the person called to does not stop they are commanded to shoot to hit."

"It pays to halt then," commented the friend.

"You said something then," replied the politician, "and if people would only realize that fact you would hear of less shooting."

THE CLOTHES MOTH.

How to Deal With This Destructive Household Pest

Washington, D. C. April 13.—At this season of the year the tiny, velvet moth which is seen occasionally flitting about the lamp at night is an indication to the housekeeper that clothes moths are beginning their work of destruction.

In other words, egg laying by these little moths is now under way, and within a month in the latitude of the District of Columbia, later northward and earlier southward, the eating of woollens and furs by the tiny caterpillars coming from these eggs may be anticipated.

The moths which are thus attracted to the lamps at night or fly away from garments or porlainers when these are handled do not themselves eat anything and could not eat if they wanted to, as they have no biting or chewing mouth parts.

The destruction as every housekeeper knows, is occasioned entirely by the tiny larvae working underneath scanty webs or in little cases made from particles of the garments on which they feed webbed together by a whitish silk.

The common clothes moth of this country is the webbing of species, known as the webbing of southern clothes moth, and its presence on garments can be detected by this smoky or whitish web which is in evidence even before the garments have been much eaten.

From these indications the larvae are discovered in time, the larvae and webs can be easily removed by a stiff brushing of the garments.

The protection of woollens, furs and feathers and like materials from the attacks of the larvae of these moths is secured only by constant vigilance and careful inspection and treatment.

As early as possible in the spring, all woollens, furs, etc., the use of which can be dispensed with, should be put away in safe storage for the summer.

Before being packed away, such articles should be thoroughly brushed and beaten and, if possible, exposed to the strong sunlight for several hours out of doors.

The brushing is very important in order to remove the eggs or young larvae which may have escaped notice.

Articles so cleaned and sunned should then be put away in moth-proof containers.

Materials which cannot be thus put away should be given the same thorough cleaning and re-inspected during the summer preferably every two weeks. In no case should such examinations be at intervals of greater than three weeks or a month.

Woolen clothing and furs, etc., may be packed away safely for the summer by enclosing them in several wrappings of paper or in well-made bags of cotton or linen cloth or in paper sacks which can be tied or otherwise securely fastened, to prevent ingress of the moths.

In these packages can be placed such repellents as tobacco dust, camphor, naphthalene cones or balls and cedar chips, etc.

The odors of these substances are disagreeable to the parent moths and act as a repellent, but they will not kill eggs or larvae which may be enclosed in the packages.

Hence the necessity of the thoroughgoing cleaning and airing prior to packing away.

The same precautions are needed with cedar chests and wardrobes.

The best means of protection from clothes moths and a method now available in all larger towns, are the refrigerating rooms provided for that purpose in practically all storage warehouses, and the adoption of this method of protection for all val-

JOE FERRO HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Fired Three Shots at Mrs. Ceone and Missed Each Time—Mrs. Ceone Wanted a Double Barreled Gun Loaded so She Could "Pop" Joe.

An echo of the attempted murder on Catherine street on Sunday afternoon was heard in recorder's court this morning when Joseph Ferro, an Italian, was arraigned before Recorder Lang charged with shooting three times at Mrs. Amella Ceone at her home, No. 236 Catherine street, and at the close of the evidence Joseph was held to await the action of the grand jury by Recorder Lang, before whom the hearing was held. Robert Howard appeared for Joseph and M. O. Auchmoody represented Mrs. Ceone. The police have also sworn out a warrant against Joseph on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, and it is likely the grand jury will consider that in conjunction with the other charge.

From the evidence brought out it appeared that Joseph was in love with Mrs. Ceone's sister, who is in Italy at the present time. The Ceones conduct a boarding house and Saturday laid in a large amount of beer to drink over Easter.

Saloons Have Back Doors.
That saloons in Ponckhockie have back doors for Sunday use was also brought out by the testimony of one who said that if he happened to run shy of beer in his house it was no trouble to go to the saloon nearby and get all he wanted. He said the saloons had back doors and all you had to do was to use the back way.

Joe Wanted Whiskey.
It developed that Easter Sunday Joe went over to the Ceone home in the morning and wanted some whiskey. He was offered beer but that was evidently too light for him and he demanded a stronger article. According to Mrs. Ceone while Joe was there that morning he hit her and she drove him out of the house with a stove poker.

"Load This Double Barrel."
While Joe was hanging outside the Ceone home a young man went to the house to get a horse to the rear of the house, and Mrs. Ceone called him in the house and asked him to load a double barreled gun she had as she wanted to drive Joe away or shoot him. She claimed Joe was trying to break in the house and she was afraid as her husband was to church.

The young man said he did not comply with her request as he was afraid there might be trouble and he told her he did not know how to load the gun. When he had slouched up he drove over to where Joe was standing and asked him if he did not want a ride.

Joe Was Drunk.
The witness said that Joe was drunk and he thought it would be a good idea to get him away from the Ceone's house before there was any trouble. Joe got in the wagon and was dropped off at North street.

Later in the morning he made another appearance at the Ceone house and again was driven out by her when he turned and as she was standing in the window drew a revolver and aiming it at her pulled the trigger three times.

Fortunately she saw Joe first and dodged back out of harm's way and was not hit by the flying bullets. After firing Joe disappeared.

Captured by Connelly.
Officer James V. Connelly told of capturing Ferro and how he had searched him but found no gun, but later when he had his prisoned handcuffed and in a taxi Joe had asked to have the cuffs removed and when Connelly reached for the key Joe dived one hand down into his waist band. Connelly saw the move and before Joe had a chance to draw his gun concealed in the waist band had taken possession of the revolver.

The revolver had been discharged three times. A number of witnesses testified and the entire morning was taken up by the hearing.

Lawyer's Big Judgment.

By a decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, Henry T. Dykman of White Plains wins his action for $179,944.24 against the City of New York for counsel fees. During the several years Mr. Dykman was employed as special commissioner in condemnation the claims against the city aggregated $9,000,000 and the judgments were less than $4,000,000. It was brought out at the trial. It was for representing New York in these cases that Dykman claimed first $245,112.01, with interest from November 9, 1914. Under an amended complaint Dykman asked for $179,944.24 with interest.

Ran in Front of Auto.

Thursday evening while W. N. Conner was driving down Broadway near Liberty street little Iona Phillips of 94 Furnace street, who with several companions were playing in the street, dashed out into the street in front of the approaching automobile and was struck in spite of Mr. Conner's efforts to avoid striking the child. Mr. Conner was driving down Broadway and in endeavoring to avoid striking the girl turned to the left just grazing the girl with a mud guard. Had he not made a sudden turn the car might have passed over the child. She was picked up and taken home by Mr. Conner, little the worse for the accident. Mr. Riel, manager of the Adams Express Company, was riding with Mr. Conner at the time of the accident.

Last Chance for Bockwurst at Lay's Saturday Sale

Wholesale meat prices have reached the height of oppressiveness, with no relief in sight. It is anything but gratifying to us to make this statement, though we must look the situation squarely in the face. Scarcity of cattle on the western ranches and heavy shipments to Europe are offered as an explanation for this extraordinary condition of affairs. Still, many homekeepers find it no little satisfaction to know of a market where they may buy meats at prices which are invariably fair and where highest qualities are always maintained. Every pound of meat we cut—whether it be for stew or for a princely roast—comes under the head of our guarantee of best quality and least cost. By special request we make Bockwurst again this week for the last time this season.

ANOTHER BIG RED CROSS GATHERING

Women of Downtown Churches Receive Instructions on Making of Surgical Dressings From Dr. O'Meara—New Members and Contributions.

There was another big meeting of Red Cross workers, held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, when some hundred women met, on invitation of Mrs. Charles G. Ellis, who with Mrs. Hyman Roosa is chairman of the women's surgical dressings work committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross. Those present represented all of the downtown churches and all were kept busy. Dr. O'Meara, one of the chairmen of the surgical dressings committee was present and impressed on the ladies the necessity of making each dressing exactly according to the given specifications. The work was under the supervision of Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck and Miss Jessie Ougheltree, who were kept exceedingly busy. Although it was the first meeting and the work had to be organized, so much was accomplished that additional material had to be secured. The women of the Church of the Comforter also wish to take up the work in their section of the city, and that will be taken in charge as soon as possible. Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck and Mrs. Henry Shultz have been appointed a purchasing committee, with power to look after the purchase of supplies.

The following new members have been received within the past few days: Miss Mary E. Murphy, Miss Clara Osterder, Miss Myra Covert of Ulster Park, Mrs. C. R. Stull, Mrs. Frank Merritt, Mrs. C. R. O'Connor, the Rev. and Mrs. Baragwanath, Miss Lillian Nelson, Mrs. Robert Rodie, Mrs. Janzen Hasbrouck, Mrs. C. E. Wonderly. The following contributions to the fund have also been received: From the Daughters of Liberty, $5; from Miss Reynolds, $5 and from Mrs. C. R. Stull, $5, which is to include membership.

Don't Complain!

The world is full of complainers. Some complain of ill health, many of ill fortune and most of all of ill luck. A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck. It is not a perfect world. Who is well every day throughout the year without an ache, a pain or a cough? Who is perfect in physique, in temper, in deed and word and conscience? What man or woman is without a weakness or reason at times for misgivings or cause at times for repentance?

It is a world of foibles, fads and fatalities. If we were all perfect the preachers would be needless. Heaven would be on earth. There is comfort in the thought that the striking differences we find among men and women make the world attractive. If all were alike the monotony would be unbearable.

Think of these things when you feel like repining over ill health, ill fortune, ill treatment or ill luck. Misery loves company, and there are always "others."—John A. Schleicher in Leslie's.

Shady Tricks of Writing.

In "The Art of Writing" Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, inveighing against the "trick of elegant variation," criticizes a certain undergraduate's essay on Byron. In an essay on Byron, he says, Byron is, or ought to be, mentioned many times. "But my undergraduate has a blushing sense that to call Byron twice on one page is indelicate. So Byron, after starting bravely as Byron, in the second sentence turns into 'that great but unequal poet,' and thenceforward I have as much trouble with Byron as ever Telemachus with Proteus to hold and pin him back to his proper self." Among the truly wonderful variations recorded by Sir Arthur are "the gloomy master of Newstead," "the meteoric darling of society," "the apostle of scorn" and "the martyr of Missolonghi."

Salt Means Much to Health.

"If the human race should be deprived of salt, even for a period of a few months," said a physician, "we would not only lose a natural healthful incentive for our food, but disease, with all its attendant miseries, would spread with such relentless speed as to defy the efforts of the most skillful doctors of the land. Ailing persons frequently refuse sugar, but they seldom turn up their noses at common salt. That is because there is in the body a deficiency of chloride of sodium, and nature intuitively excites the desire for it. Salt is essential to health and life and is as much a food as bread or flesh. If there is no wish for salt in a person doctors uniformly conclude that disease in some form is lurking unsuspected in the system."

The Barking Wolf.

The prairie wolf, the coyote of the Mexicans, is the American representative of the old world jackal. It is thirty-six to forty inches long, with a tail measuring sixteen to eighteen inches. Its color is usually a yellowish gray on the back and sides, with black cloudings. The under parts and inside of limbs are of a dirty white tint. The cry is a sort of snapping bark, and for this reason the animal is known as the barking wolf. It lives and breeds in burrows and has its young in April, often ten at a time. It hunts in packs and is very fleet.

Let Him Say Something.

"I'm just waiting for my husband to complain about my extravagance this month."

"Ready to give him an argument, eh?"

"You bet I am. By mistake his golf club checks came to the house, and I've got 'em."—Detroit Free Press.

COMMANDERS OF U. S. ANTI-SUBMARINE MOSQUITO FLOTILLAS.

These are the commanders of the various divisions of the United States Atlantic Destroyer Flotilla, the men who in all probability will have immediate charge of the work of keeping Atlantic steamer lanes open and suppressing the activities of German submarines as a menace to American and Allied shipping. Lieutenant-Commander Charles E. Courtney has command of a flotilla of nine speedy, vicious-looking destroyers. Lieutenant-Commander Joseph K. Taussig is the commander of a flotilla of eight destroyers. Lieutenant E. A. McIntyre is in command of the oil-burning destroyer Henley, one of the fastest vessels of its kind in the world, and Lieutenant-Commander Neal E. Nichols from the destroyer Winslow commands a flotilla of seven destroyers.

MEETING TROUBLE.

Difficulties and troubles, if bravely met, make strong men and women, but endless worry and anticipation of evil cannot fail to weaken the will and the character. Laugh and be glad now. If you wait till you conquer your little world you will never laugh and be glad. It is better to live in a castle in the air than to dwell in the dungeons we too often allow our forebodings to build for us.

Attractive Dress Not Enough.

Why don't the women stand straight, hold up their heads, throw their shoulders back and look at you as the queens that they are? As a rule, they depend upon their dress, their hats, gloves, shoes, waists to make them look attractive and neglect that feature of their appearance that is most important—their carriage and their bodily form. There are too many hollow chests and stoop shoulders going about. The women should think more of themselves than of the fashions and thus make womanhood appear at its very best. It is not the finest dresser who is the most beautiful woman.—Ohio State Journal.

Net Sleepwalkers.

Visiting Preacher (after the service)—Well, the congregation stayed all through the sermon. Head Deacon—Young man, the people of this city are not noted for walking in their sleep.—Brooklyn Citizen.

A Persian Bridge Story.

There are few rivers in Persia, and not many of these are bridged. Years ago a wealthy woman built a bridge over a stream near the capital city, and then, thinking that this should have been done by the shah, she pronounced a curse upon any king who should ever cross the bridge. It is said that no Persian ruler has ever had the hardihood to venture upon it, and it is said there is not money enough in the kingdom to hire one to do so.—Los Angeles Times.

Properly Punished.

"Young gentlemen, do not get into the habit of betting," said the professor to his class. "No kind of bet is excusable. In fact, every bet is a sin as well as a mark of vulgarity. Have nothing to do, young gentlemen, with a bet of any kind."

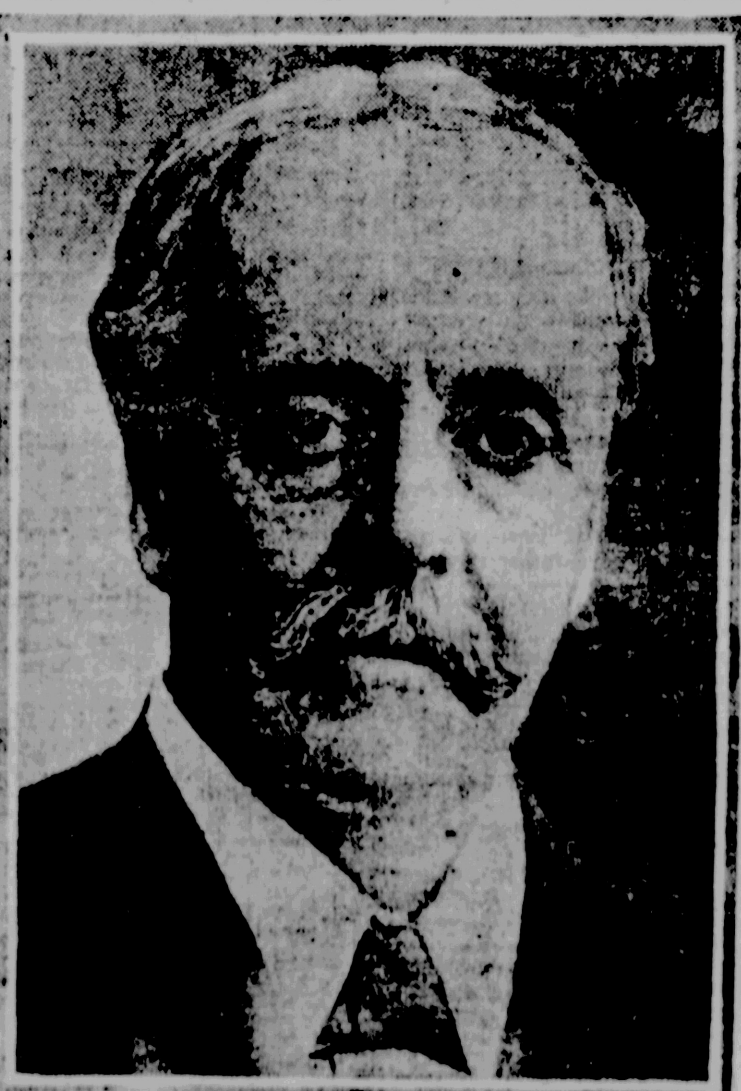

"That, I suppose, puts a finisher on our old friend the alphabet!" exclaimed one of the students.

The professor smiled blandly upon the young man and gave him fifty extra lines of Greek.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A Matter of Time.

"What's the use of complaining because eggs are up a few cents," a farmer asked the other day, "when it takes a perfectly good hen in the most favorable circumstances twenty-four hours to lay one?"

"If you are going to determine prices by the time consumed in production," said a college graduate from Boston who was present, "what are you going to charge for a chicken when it takes 504 hours for a hen to hatch one?"—Argonaut.

LORD ARTHUR J. BALFOUR. BRITAIN TO SEND BALFOUR HERE FOR WAR CONFERENCE.

According to dispatches from London, Foreign Secretary Arthur J. Balfour, member of the British War Council, is about to leave for Washington on a "special mission." During his absence Lord Cecil will act as Foreign Secretary, a subordinate assuming temporarily Lord Cecil's post of Minister of Blockade. Balfour was formerly First Lord of the Admiralty in the old coalition Ministry in England, and it was his support with that of Andrew Bonar Law, another Unionist, that made the Lloyd George Ministry possible.

Chautauqua-April 18 to 24

ANNUAL DEBATE AT HIGH SCHOOL

This evening at eight o'clock the Varsity debating team of Kingston H. S. will debate against Poughkeepsie H. S. in the high school auditorium. The question which Poughkeepsie submitted in challenging the local team is worded: Resolved, that the literacy test clause of the recently passed immigration bill will conduce to the welfare of the U. S.

The annual Poughkeepsie debate has now become one of the time honored events of high school life in Kingston and usually there is great interest shown by the students and citizens of the two cities. Last year the local team was defeated for the first time in three years and the team this year have no intention of allowing the down river trio to repeat the performance.

The speeches of each of the six men will be ten minutes in length and the rebuttal 12 minutes. The judges are Judge Jenkins of Kingston, the Hon. F. Conger of Poughkeepsie and Principal Marsh of Highland high school. The local varsity team is Edward Stelle, leader; Travis Gillette and Leonard Lockwood.

When the speaking is over and while the judges are making their decision, the audience will be entertained with a solo by Miss Ruth Schaffer, Lawrence Cavanaugh playing the violin obligato. Mr. Cavanaugh will also give a violin solo and lead the orchestra in several selections during the evening.

This question of the future restriction of immigration is one that has engaged a great deal of public interest for the last twenty years. The literacy test restriction has been voted more times than any bill ever before congress. The part which aliens play in our country's progress and the problems they occasion are something that every one thinks more or less about, especially now during the present turmoil.

The young men debating tonight have put a great deal of time in research, probably all together 500 hours of work so that although young they will have facts and figures to offer tonight which will be new to most of their audience, and which must lead some to a better understanding of the question.

After the debate there will be an informal dance in the gymnasium.

ADVERTISING WRITING.

UNWIRE advertising economy is an acquired habit with many merchants, like olive and moving pictures, but when the habit is continued, it is a source of pride to believe that each time they blacken a dollar and lay it away on ice, without drawing it from their advertising expenditures, they have done wisely. Really, such business men are short-changing themselves. Well written advertisements are business getters. The other kind won't do at all. Let me write you ads with "pop and punch." George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

AUTOISTS ASKED TO ENROLL AUTOS

Automobilists of Ulster county are attesting their interest in the national defense as will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in these columns which asks the enrollment of all cars, pleasure or commercial, with Dr. H. F. Meinhardt, secretary of the Automobile Club of Ulster county. The list will then be held ready for orders on the part of the military authorities who may be in need of a number of cars on short notice.

The annual banquet of the club to be held Saturday evening at The Stuyvesant gives promise of being one of the most successful affairs of its kind in the history of the club. Senators E. R. Brown and James J. Walker will be the chief speakers.

Before leaving the house Monday he placed his keys, watch and money on the table in the kitchen where it was later found.

Any one who remembers seeing a man answering the above description is requested to get in touch with police headquarters.

Mr. Delaney resides with his mother who is naturally worried over his absence.

Port and Impertinent.

A young woman of a pink complexion, but of heroic build—a kind way of denoting obesity—applied to a morning picture director for a position as an extra girl. She presented him a personal letter of introduction. Long years ago, it seems, the director knew her father and mother. As he gazed at this plump June the light of memory came into his eyes, but still he was not quite certain about something.

"Let me see," he mused, "which side of the house do you resemble the most?"

"Sir," she cried in accent far from mild, "I don't resemble any side of any old house!"—Topeka State Journal.

MENTAL ENERGY.

It pays to think. It is like putting money out at interest. Dollars make dollars, and thoughts make other thoughts. We are so accustomed to having this old world reward us for things we do in dollars that we forget there is such a reward as brains—mental growth. Happy the one who sees all these things in their proper light, who recognizes in every failure a lesson learned, in every effort a reward.

ASKS ALL WOMEN TO DO THEIR BIT

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Heads Sensible Movement to Cut Out Society Events and Inaugurate Crusade for Economy—Brains Offered Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 13.—Led by Mrs. Wilson, wife of the president, and Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice president, the women of the capital today began a general curtailment of formal social events and at the same time inaugurated a crusade for personal and domestic economy as their "bit" toward the successful prosecution of the war. It is hoped that an example may thus be set the women of the country to reduce their scale of living to the simplest possible form.

Simultaneously an appeal went out to women's organizations throughout the land to lend their support to the movement. It is pointed out that if social life is reduced to the minimum all will be able to give more bountifully of their time and money for defense and relief work. It is sought to pledge leaders among women everywhere to wear inexpensive clothing and use only simple foods, watching against a waste of every kind.

Presidents of three of the leading colleges for women in the United States and other leading female educators are in Washington today urging that the government use the services of thousands of trained minds of American college women.

President Ellen T. Pendleton of Wellesley; President M. Carr Thomas of Bryn Mawr and President Mary Wolley of Mount Holyoke urge that college women can take the place of men in many lines of endeavor. They offer women trained in administration, in all branches of science and arts, in word they offer the government brains—and brains if need be. If the time comes when it is necessary they say the American woman will do her part of the physical work of warfare.

Chicago, April 13.—Leading Chicago society and club women today generally endorsed the appeal issued by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the vice president, for social and household economies for the period of the war.

"Entertaining should be curtailed to the greatest possible extent," said Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, "and the same principle should apply to costly forms of amusement. It is the duty of every woman in a time like this to reduce her food budget so that she may give all she can to the nation."

New York, April 13.—Mrs. Helen Heath, president of the National Housewives League, today issued "the support of the league the movement started in Washington by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and a host of other women to reduce the cost of living."

"I am greatly interested in the timely movement," Mrs. Wilson started, "and I am glad to pledge my support to it. The National Housewives League has been studying the problem of conservation diligently, and I believe that it will have a widespread effect."

"I have been shocked of late read of extensive plans made by New York society for fancy dress ball and entertainments at a time when the country should conserve and produce its every resource. The housewives of America can show their patriotism by denying themselves some of the luxuries of life."

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. It should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, January 21, 1914.

BUILDING BEAUTY INTO HIGHWAYS

Planting Trees Along Roadway
Adds Attractiveness.

WEEDS SHOULD BE REMOVED

More Attention Should Be Given in Future to the Development of Aesthetic Possibilities of Highway Construction—Shrubbery Also Is of Economic Value.

The scramble in the past to secure so called permanent roads, economic roads, or even any roads at all, has almost entirely excluded any thought of beautifying the roadway by the planting or preserving of trees and shrubbery or by taking other steps which add to the appearance of the road. In the planning for and building of such a large mileage of highways which, as reports from all sections of the country indicate, will take place in the future, more attention should be given to the development of the aesthetic possibilities of highway construction.

What perfection has been attained in the art of road building at the present time is due to the automobile, and to the automobile may, in the future, be charged the great amount of road building activity in the nation today. Gravel roads have been bettered, and the traffic limits within which this type will prove economical have been greatly revised. Water bound macadam roads, formerly considered the height of excellence for country road construction, have quickly travelled under the automobile traffic, and it has been found necessary to treat their surface, thereby greatly increasing the service which they are able to render. Bituminous concrete, cement concrete and brick surfaces have been adapted for country roads and provide long lived, hard surfaced roads well suited to the needs of both horse drawn and automobile traffic.

Few there are who do not experience a pleasurable sensation when traveling a road lined with luxuriant trees which enhance the beauty of the landscape and supply refreshing shade from the summer's heat. Is it not proper that in the present day program of road building log consideration should be given to the planting of trees along the roads, thus affording pleasure and comfort to the travelers of the future?

But the pleasure of trees is not the only way to beautify the roadside. Clean, well kept cuts and ditches, sodded and free from unsightly weeds and brush, add very materially to the appearance of the turnpike. A span of years is not required to secure results, as is the case with tree planting. Attractiveness can be incorporated into the construction of the road and preserved as a part of the maintenance. And the additional cost is slight compared with the noticeable effect upon the appearance of the road.

Beauty is economy too. The growing of trees along the public roads removes to a degree the injurious effect of the wind on earth, gravel and macadam roads. In most parts of the United States trees are desirable since they prevent the road from becoming as dry and dusty as it would without the shade which they afford. Trees or shrubbery along cuts prevent the obstruction of the road by drifting snow to a large extent. Sodded banks overgrown with grass, besides being pleasing to the eye, prevent erosion and, in sandy soils, help retain the sand in place. To secure good side drainage, the ditches must be kept free from weeds and brush, thereby greatly improving the road from a practical and aesthetic standpoint.

In the future, then, with a large mileage of scenic highways within its borders, a state may well say that its roads are its fortune. The influx of tourists seeking pleasure and entertainment in the changing landscapes will bring no inconsiderable financial return to the highest bidder for their favor—the section which offers the best and most attractive highways. Thus the beautification of the highways should bring economic and direct financial returns and make the roads a source of pride and joy to the community.—American City.

JOE FERRO HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Three Shots at Mrs. Leone and Missed Each Time—Mrs. Leone Wanted a Double Barreled Gun Loaded so She Could Top Joe

An echo of the attempt to murder on Catherine street on Sunday afternoon was heard in a court room this morning when Joseph Ferro, an Italian, was arraigned before Recorder Long, charged with shooting three times at Mrs. Amelia Leone at her home No. 10 of Catherine street at 10 o'clock last night. The action of the grand jury by Recorder Long, before whom the hearing was held, held Ferro on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and it is likely the grand jury will consider that in conjunction with the other charges.

From the evidence brought out it appeared that Joseph was in love with Mrs. Leone's sister who is in Italy at the present time. The Leone's conduct in leaving home and Sunday last in a large amount of haste to drink over a sister.

Saloons Have Back Doors.
That saloons in Poughkeepsie have back doors for Sunday use was also brought out by the testimony of one who said that if he happened to run into her in his house it was no trouble to go to the saloon nearby and get all he wanted. He said the saloons had back doors and all you had to do was to use the back door.

Joe Wanted Whiskey.
It developed that last Sunday Joe went over to the Leone home in the morning and visited some while. He was offered beer but that was evidently too light for him and he demanded a stronger article. According to Mrs. Leone while Joe was there that morning he hit her and she drove him out of the house with a stove pipe.

Loaded This Double Barrel.
While Joe was hanging outside the Leone home a young man went to the house to get a horse in the rear of the house and Mrs. Leone told him in the house and asked him to load a double barreled gun. He had as she wanted to drive Joe away or shoot him. She claimed Joe was trying to break in the house and she was afraid as her husband was in the house.

The young man said he did not fight with her request as he was afraid he might be trouble and he did not know how to handle the gun. When he was afraid up he drove over to where Joe was standing and asked him if he did not want a ride.

Joe Was Drunk.
The wife said that Joe was drunk and he thought it would be a good idea to get him away from the house before there was any trouble. Joe got in the wagon and drove away.

Later in the morning he made an other appearance at the Leone home and again was driven out by her when he tried to enter. As she was standing in the window drew a revolver and aiming it at her pulled the trigger three times.

Fortunately she saw Joe first and looked out of her window and was not hit by the flying bullets. After firing, Joe disappeared.

Captured by Connolly.
Officer James A. Connolly told of capturing Ferro and how he had searched him but found no gun but later when he had his prisoner handcuffed and in a taxi Joe had told him to have the cuffs removed and when Connolly reached for the key to his handcuffs and down into his waistband Connolly saw the move and before Joe had a chance to draw his gun, concealed in the waist band had taken possession of the revolver.

The revolver had been discharged a number of times. Connolly said he had a number of witnesses testify that he had seen Ferro at the Leone home.

Lawyer's Big Indictment.

By a decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, Henry J. Delman of White Plains was his action for $1,000 against the City of New York for contempt. During the several years Mr. Delman was employed as special counsel to the city against the City of New York. The city officials were less than $1,000. It was brought out at the trial that it was for representing New York in these cases that Delman claimed $1,000. On November 1, 1914, under an amended complaint Delman asked for $1,000 plus 4 with interest.

Ran In Front of Auto.

Thursday evening while W. A. Conner was driving down Broadway near Liberty street into a challenge of 24 Liberty street who with several companions were playing in the street dashed out into the street in front of the approaching automobile and was struck in spite of Mr. Conner's efforts to avoid striking the child. Mr. Conner was driving down Broadway and in endeavoring to avoid striking the child turned to the left and grazing the girl with a mud wheel. Had he not made a sudden turn the car might have passed over the child. She was picked up and taken home by Mr. Conner's little daughter. For the accident Mr. Conner was charged with the Adams Express Company was riding with Mr. Conner at the time of the accident.

Last Chance for Bockwurst at Lay's Saturday Sale

Wholesale meat prices have reached the height of oppressiveness, with no relief in sight. It is anything but gratifying to us to make this statement, though we must look the situation squarely in the face. Scarcity of cattle on the western ranches and heavy shipments to Europe are offered as an explanation for this extraordinary condition of affairs. Still, many housekeepers find it no little satisfaction to know of a market where they may buy meats at prices which are invariably fair and where highest qualities are always maintained. Every pound of meat we cut—whether it be for stew or for a princely roast—comes under the head of our guarantee of best quality and least cost. By special request we make Bockwurst again this week for the last time this season.

ANOTHER BIG RED CROSS GATHERING

Women of Downtown Churches Receive Instructions on Making of Surgical Dressings From Dr. O'Meara—New Members and Contributions.

There was another big meeting of Red Cross workers, held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, when some hundred women met, on invitation of Mrs. Charles G. Ellis, who with Mrs. Hyman Hoosa is chairman of the women's surgical dressings work committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross. Those present represented all of the downtown churches and all were kept busy. Dr. O'Meara, one of the chairmen of the surgical dressings committee, was present and impressed on the ladies the necessity of making each dressing exactly according to the given specifications. The work was under the supervision of Mrs. Conrad E. Hasbrouck and Miss Jessie Ougheltree, who were kept exceedingly busy. Although it was the first meeting and the work had to be organized, so much was accomplished that additional material had to be secured. The women of the Church of the Comforter also wish to take up the work in their section of the city, and that will be taken in charge as soon as possible. Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck and Mrs. Henry Shultz have been appointed a purchasing committee, with power to look after the purchase of supplies.

The following new members have been received within the past few days: Miss Mary B. Murphy, Miss Clara Ostrander, Mrs. Myra, Robert, Frank, Merritt, Mrs. C. R. O'Connor, the Rev. and Mrs. Baragwanath, Miss Lillian Nelson, Mrs. Robert, Mrs. Jansen Hasbrouck, Mrs. C. E. Wondert. The following contributions to the fund have also been received: From the Daughters of Liberty, $5; from Miss Reynolds, $5 and from Mrs. C. R. Stull, $5, which is to include membership.

Don't Complain

The world is full of complainers. Some complain of ill health, many of ill fortune and most of all of ill luck. A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck. It is not a perfect world. Who is well every day throughout the year without an ache, a pain or a cough? Who is perfect in physique, in temper, in deed and word and conscience? What man or woman is without a weakness or reason at times for misgivings or cause at times for repentance? It is a world of foibles, fads and fancies. If we were all perfect the preachers would be needless. Heaven would be on earth. There is comfort in the thought that the striking differences we find among men and women make the world attractive. If all were alike the monotony would be unbearable. Think of these things when you feel like repining over ill health, ill fortune, ill treatment or ill luck. Misery loves company, and there are always "others."—John A. Steicher in Leslie's.

Shady Tricks of Writing

In "The Art of Writing" Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, inveighing against the "trick of elegant variation," criticizes a certain undergraduate's essay on Byron. In an essay on Byron, he says, Byron is, or ought to be, mentioned many times. "But my undergraduate has a blinding sense that to call Byron twice on one page is indelicate. So Byron, after starting bravely as Byron, in the second sentence turns into 'that great but unquaint poet; and thenceforward I have as much trouble with Byron as ever Telemachus with Proteus to hold and pin him back to his proper self.' Among the truly wonderful variations recorded by Sir Arthur are 'the gloomy master of Newstead,' 'the meteoric darling of society,' 'the apostle of scorn' and 'the martyr of Missolonghi.'"

Salt Means Much to Health

"If the human race should be deprived of salt, even for a period of a few months," said a physician, "we would not only lose a natural healthful incentive for our food, but disease, with all its attendant miseries, would spread with such relentless speed as to defy the efforts of the most skillful doctors of the land. Ailing persons frequently refuse sugar, but they seldom turn up their noses at common salt. That is because there is in the body a deficiency of chloride of sodium, and nature intuitively excites the desire for it. Salt is essential to health and life and is as much a food as bread or flesh. If there is no wish for salt in a person doctors uniformly conclude that disease in some form is lurking unsuspected in the system."

The Barking Wolf

The prairie wolf, the coyote of the Mexicans, is the American representative of the old world jackal. It is thirty-six to forty inches long, with a tall measuring sixteen to eighteen inches. Its color is usually a yellowish gray on the back and sides, with black cloudings. The under parts and inside of limbs are of a dirty white tint. The cry is a sort of snapping bark, and for this reason the animal is known as the barking wolf. It lives and breeds in burrows and has its young in April, often ten at a time. It hunts in packs and is very fleet.

Let Him Say Something

"I'm just waiting for my husband to complain about my extravagance this month." "Ready to give him an argument, eh?" "You bet I am. By mistake his golf club checks came to the house; and I've got 'em."—Detroit Free Press.

COMMANDERS OF U. S. ANTI-SUBMARINE MOSQUITO FLOTILLAS.

These are the commanders of the various divisions of the United States Atlantic Destroyer Flotilla, the men who in all probability will have immediate charge of the work of keeping Atlantic steamers open and suppressing the activities of German submarines as a menace to American and Allied shipping. Lieutenant-Commander Charles E. Courtney has command of a flotilla of nine speedy, vicious-looking destroyers. Lieutenant-Commander Joseph K. Tausig is the commander of a flotilla of eight destroyers. Lieutenant E. A. Stanton is in command of the oil-burning destroyer Denley, one of the fastest vessels of its kind in the world, and Lieutenant-Commander Neal E. Nichols from the destroyer Winslow commands a flotilla of seven destroyers.

MEETING TROUBLE

Difficulties and troubles, if bravely met, make strong men and women, but endless worry and anticipation of evil cannot fail to weaken the will and the character. Laugh and be glad now. If you wait till you conquer your little world you will never laugh and be glad. It is better to live in a castle in the air than to dwell in the dungeons we too often allow our forebodings to build for us.

Attractive Dress Not Enough

Why don't the women stand straight, hold up their heads, throw their shoulders back and look at you as the queens that they are? As a rule, they depend upon their dress, their hats, gloves, shoes, waists to make them look attractive and neglect that feature of their appearance that is most important—their carriage and their bodily form. There are too many hollow chests and stoop shoulders going about. The women should think more of themselves than of the fashions and thus make womanhood appear at its very best. It is not the finest dresser who is the most beautiful woman.—Ohio State Journal.

Not Sleepwalkers

Visiting Preacher (after the service).—Well, the congregation stayed all through the sermon. Head Deacon—Young man, the people of this city are not noted for walking in their sleep.—Brooklyn Citizen.

A Persian Bridge Story

There are few rivers in Persia, and not many of these are bridged. Years ago a wealthy woman built a bridge over a stream near the capital city, and then, thinking that this should have been done by the shah, she pronounced a curse upon any king who should ever cross the bridge. It is said that no Persian ruler has ever had the hardihood to venture upon it and it is said there is not money enough in the kingdom to like one to do so.—Los Angeles Times.

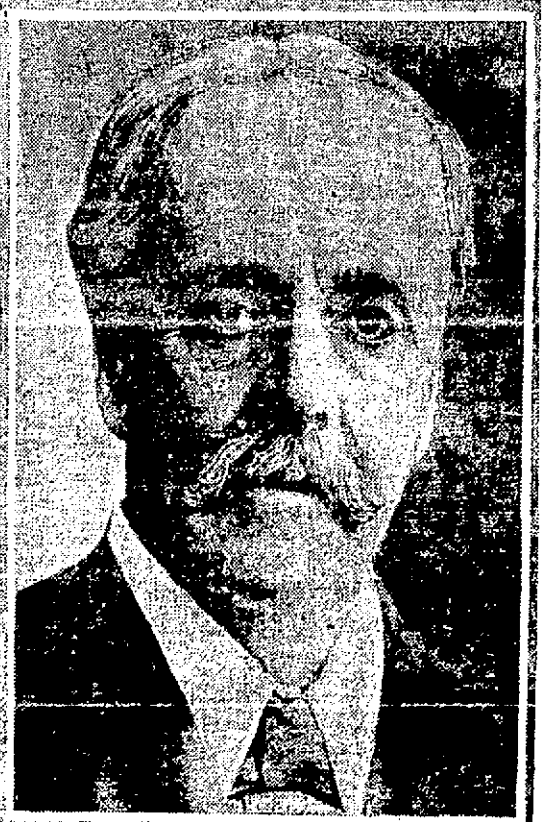

Properly Punished

"Young gentlemen, do not get into the habit of betting," said the professor to his class. "No kind of bet is excusable. In fact, every bet is a sin as well as a mark of vulgarity. Have nothing to do, young gentlemen, with a bet of any kind." "But, I suppose, puts a number on our old friend the alphabet?" exclaimed one of the students. The professor smiled blandly upon the young man and gave him fifty extra lines of Greek.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A Matter of Time

"What's the use of complaining because eggs are up a few cents," a farmer asked the other day, "when I take a perfectly good hen in the most favorable circumstances twenty-four hours to lay one?"

"If you are going to determine prices by the time consumed in production," said a college graduate from Boston who was present, "what are you going to charge for a chicken when it takes 204 hours for a hen to hatch one?"—Argonaut.

HON. ARTHUR J. BALFOUR. BRITAIN TO SEND BALFOUR HERE FOR WAR CONFERENCE.

According to dispatches from London, Foreign Secretary Arthur J. Balfour, member of the British War Council, is about to leave for Washington on a "special mission." During his absence Lord Cecil will act as Foreign Secretary, a subordinate assuming temporarily Lord Cecil's post of Minister of Blockade. Balfour was formerly First Lord of the Admiralty in the old coalition Ministry in England, and it was his support with that of Andrew Bonar Law, another Unionist, that made the Lloyd George Ministry possible.
